In social work practice, it is common for two or more ethical imperatives to seem to conflict, and guidelines do not always give clear directions. This presents a dilemma in decision making. In this webinar, students from the Master of Social Work programme will share their experiences in identifying and dealing with ethical dilemmas during their internship placement in community social labs in Uganda. The webinar will generate discussions on the wider topic of ethical decision making in social work and how future practitioners can be prepared to address ethical dilemmas.
